

My dad and mom don't get along well. They had an argument and are now sitting on the couch without saying a word. I decide to...

Go talk to them and show them my Doraemon drawing to cheer them up!

Go back to my room because I am too afraid to ask.

My dad sees the drawing and tells me: "What is this ugly thing? Is this an alien or what? Aliens don't exist! Go study and stop wasting time thinking about this stuff!" and mom also echoes him.

This is my fault. I should stop drawing so my parent won't be mad again.

I am disappointed by my parent but I don't care what they said.